

The Campaign for Colorado State University
COLLEGE OF APPLIED HUMAN SCIENCES

Nutrition Center

Department of Food Science and Human Nutrition

Gift Opportunity - $500,000

Empowering students and programs dedicated to solving obesity problems and improving the health of our communities.

The Center includes:

Lab kitchen with work island and mirror for demonstrations

Group space for presentations

Examination room

Consultation room

Recognizing the need for more affordable and accessible nutrition services, CSU has developed the Nutrition Center to improve the health and quality of life of the citizens in our community, including low-income and underserved populations. By collaborating with CSU Extension and community partners, the Center provides nutrition counseling, education, and outreach, while offering service-oriented experiential learning for students, and research opportunities for faculty and staff.

While the bricks and mortar for the 1,000 square foot Center is in place, operational funding is critically needed to sustain the program.

Your gift will provide resources for program and marketing support, an endowment for client support, funding for a graduate teaching assistantship, and a Nutrition Center Endowment to augment the major efforts related to sustaining the program in perpetuity.

The impact of the Center is far reaching. Students who are receiving a hands-on education will dedicate their careers to working in hospitals, schools, and communities with the shared goal of solving our world's nutrition related challenges.

To learn more, contact Lori Sims at 970.491.5669 or Lori.Sims@colostate.edu.